Brief description: A guest lecture on NET/SET preparation was conducted for MCA students to provide valuable insights and guidance for qualifying national-level eligibility exams in the field of Computer Science and related disciplines. The session was delivered by Prof. Prasad Goyal Sir, an esteemed academician and subject expert with vast experience in competitive exam coaching. His talk focused on the structure, syllabus, preparation strategies, and important dos and don'ts for appearing in NET (National Eligibility Test) and SET (State Eligibility Test). The session began with a warm welcome address by Prof. V. B. Pujari Sir, who highlighted the importance of such knowledge-sharing sessions in motivating students to pursue careers in academics and research. Following the session, Prof. Viraj Jadhav Sir felicitated the guest speaker with a token of appreciation on behalf of the department, thanking him for his informative and inspiring talk. The lecture proved to be highly beneficial for the students, helping them understand the examination pattern, important topics, time management techniques, and resources to refer to for success in these competitive exams.

8.Outcomes:

1. Students gained a clear understanding of the NET/SET exam structure, eligibility, and its significance in academic careers.
2. Students understood the NET/SET exam pattern and syllabus.
